To whom it may concern

My dealings with the Project group of companies go back many years. Project Air Conditioning has been a long standing and valuable supplier to Jaxon Construction in the area of design, supply and installation of some major commercial and multi residential mechanical services projects built by Jaxon.

I have also had reason to engage the services of the group's solar company, Project GreenPower. Equally they provide an exemplary service in the area of solar PV system selection and installation.

The engineering personnel along with the installation and electrical trade's people are very thorough and professional in their approach. Their method of installation & approach to maintaining a safe working environment is exemplary. Their installation staff in my experience are courteous, flexible and efficient and have carried out their works without fault.

I highly recommend Project GreenPower following the work they have carried for me.
